Against all odds and warnings, Professor Eugene goes ahead with his research project in quest of a plant; Bryophyte, believed to be found in a humid virgin forest in the tropics, this he claims could hold the answer to some pharmaceutical quest for a new healing balm.

Despatching five of his top botany students to the forest of Agbablaka, he basks in the euphoria of their anticipated successful find. Out in the forest, love is kindled, villages are unsettled, mysteries are unveiled, death is triggered, war looms and Professor Eugene loses his sanity.
